

Mondo's brother Michael and a friend came over to the house that night and saw the door open and the lights on. They thought someone might be robbing it again so Michael yelled from outside. Police who were watching the house nearby fired a shot. Michael ran and fell. Police arrested him for no apparent reason and took him to the police station for questioning.